

WEEKLY MARKET PRICE 38-2024

- Over the past week, cotton prices have remained steady, holding within the higher end of their new range, between 68 and 70 cents per pound.
- Cotton yarn prices in China saw a slight decline last week ahead of the long weekend. The anticipated “peak season” has been underwhelming, with demand for yarns still showing no signs of recovery.
- The elevated cotton prices in India are limiting cotton yarn exports, as competitors from other countries offer more competitive pricing.
- Cotton yarn prices in Pakistan have begun rising over the past week, driven by a seasonal recovery in demand from downstream processors.
- Polyester chain prices have resumed their downward trend this Wednesday in the Far East, as China returned from a long holiday weekend.
